

Help our clients to find vulnerabilities before cyber-criminals do

Do you enjoy the thrill of hacking into systems on online training platforms or bug bounty programs? Would you like to turn your passion into a career and help us protecting our clients' systems? Do you want to kickstart your career at the global leader in cyber security consulting and grow your career as ethical hacker / penetration tester?

As an ethical hacker / penetration tester, you will work with clients across various industries to ensure their applications and infrastructure are secure. You will be supported by your team who will help you to leverage your prior experience while growing and building up your penetration testing expertise and staying up to date with the latest tools, techniques, and procedures.

How you can make an impact:

- Perform penetration tests for web and mobile applications and other security assessments such as code reviews where technical skills are essential
- Document your findings in a high-quality, easy to read report, present it to the client and explain the steps required for remediation
- Share your expertise as part of wider projects in the area of red teaming, IT risks and regulatory projects
- Participate in team problem solving efforts and offer ideas to solve client issues
- Support business development activities such as proposal and presentation preparation

Who we are looking for:

- You have a passion for cyber security and the desire to build your Consulting career as a penetration tester in our application security team
- You participated in CTF events, hacking challenges such as Hack The Box or bug bounty programs
- You have a completed Bachelor or Master's degree with a strong academic record in computer science or a similar field
- A good understanding of the OWASP Top 10 and penetration testing related certifications such as OSCP or OSWE are a strong advantage
- Software development skills would be a plus
- Experience in vulnerability management would be an added advantage.
- You are completely fluent in English, fluency in German is a strong advantage
